

Voluntary Accident Insurance

Draw on the protection provided by your benefits.

Great news! Your employer is offering you the opportunity to purchase accident insurance at group rates from Reliance Standard, a trusted benefits carrier in business for over a century.

No one likes to think about the possibility of an accident, but the very likelihood is inescapable. Think about it: Have you or anyone in your family ever had an automobile accident? Slip and fall? How about a bicycle or skiing accident? When was the last time you saw the inside of an Emergency Room? If you're like most Americans, it wasn't too long ago!

Medical insurance offsets most of the treatment costs for injuries resulting from an accident. But what about the out of pocket costs you don't consider? There's time off from work while you or a loved one convalesces, doctor visits and hospital co-pays, medical insurance deductibles, maybe child care expenses—even stocking up on ibuprofen and bandages! It's inconvenient, expensive, and can make a serious dent in a family's savings. Accident insurance provides a hedge against this possibility, paying a fixed, lump-sum benefit for injuries resulting from a covered accident—up to and including death.

These benefits are paid directly to you or your designee, to use however you wish. The benefit schedule specifies payment amounts for events like hospitalizations, emergency room visits, surgery, coma, paralysis, major diagnostic tests, chiropractic, physical therapy, fractures, burns, dislocations, and more.

“I already have medical insurance for those things.”

Medical insurance is a necessity to cover treatment costs for injuries sustained in an accident. You may have other insurance, like auto or homeowner's insurance that may come into play when you or a loved one is involved in an accident.

But treatment costs are only one piece of the financial puzzle when someone is injured. Lost wages and increased household expenses, paired with the leftover costs of medical insurance doesn't cover such as co-pays and deductibles, can mean bills piling up just when you're least able to keep up with them.

Do the math:

47.2 million

About 1 in 7 Americans suffered an injury and sought medical attention.

National Safety Council, 2017

“OK, so I have an accident. It's not a big deal.”

The economic impact of these non-fatal unintentional injuries amounted to about $4,863.40 billion. These are costs that every individual and household pays for whether directly out of pocket, through higher prices for goods and services or through higher taxes.

“I don't see the value in another insurance policy.”

Think about this: You buy life insurance in the event you die. You buy disability insurance in the event you can't work for a period of time because of an illness. But you buy medical insurance because you're pretty sure you're going to need it! Accident insurance is like that: the odds are good you or someone in your family is going to be injured in an accident at some point. And you can purchase coverage for you, you and your spouse, or your entire family. Further, your employer may offer a choice of plans that allow you to select the one that fits your need and budget best.

“What if I don't get approved?”

Actually, you cannot be turned down for this insurance if you are an eligible employee—coverage is guaranteed—and there is no medical underwriting.

“What do I do now?”

If you agree that you and your loved ones can benefit from this important coverage, it is easy to get started. Simply review the accompanying materials that provide more detail about the plan which includes a description of benefits, exclusions and limitations, and complete the Reliance Standard enrollment form supplied by your employer.
